

She's a warrior, without the medieval amour. Broken hearts, disappointments and betrayals are her scars.

She fails. She rises, and readies for battle. Defeat is never an option.

She's a fighter. Stoic and Brave. Smiling her way through the trauma, conquering the adversities in silence.

She understands that people can't relate or comprehend the pain.

She's a soldier. Determination and strength provided an impenetrable shield.

She's a gladiator. Instincts and years of experience and wisdom illuminate the path forward.

She's a survivor on a mission to succeed.

A champion without recognition. In control of her own destiny, taking orders from no one.

She will never be hurt again.